Fund Overview

As the crisis of COVID-19 has unfolded, financial markets globally have been negatively impacted. Performance of the Hamilton Lane Global Private Assets Fund decreased (3.60%) for the month of March, delivering a (4.74%) return in the two months since inception. The portfolio is diversified across secondary investments, direct equity investments, and direct credit investments through various General Partners, strategies, industries and geographies. Portfolio diversification will continue to evolve as further investments are made in the Fund.

Impact of COVID-19 on the Global Private Assets Portfolio

Our portfolio construction and investment selection over the past number of months have been with consideration of a potential economic pull back in the near-term. For that reason, we have tactically allocated to investments that have proven to have durable business models through prior recessions. We developed a diversified portfolio of strong companies that we believe will remain resilient through an economic downturn. As of the end of March, the portfolio consists of 33 transactions with exposure into 172 underlying companies. The portfolio was not immune to the impact of COVID-19, with some portfolio companies affected by the quarantine and isolation measures taken by a number of countries. These have been reflected in the March valuations, however the careful portfolio construction and focus on geographic and sector diversification benefitted the portfolio and limited the downside.

Notable Activity

Despite the challenging market environment, there were a number of recent highlights in the Fund. Particularly, the Fund's investment in the debt of GFL Environmental was realized during the month. GFL Environmental is an environmental services company in North America offering services in solid waste management, liquid waste management and infrastructure implementation. Despite the very challenging market conditions, the company was able to successfully market and price one of the largest IPOs on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The realization generated a 1.2x multiple following a 16 month hold period.

New Investment Highlights

The Fund has committed $54M USD to five direct equity investments in February and March across various industries including healthcare, industrials, financials, and consumer staples. Recently, the Fund committed $6.6M USD to an equity investment to California based health and wellness company, Hims, Inc., that operates two brands dedicated to men's and women's health and wellness. The company provides advice, consultation, and FDA-approved products for men's and women's health concerns. The company offers a one-stop shop for trusted self-care solutions primarily through its own direct-to-consumer channel. Shortly after investment, the company completed a subsequent round of fundraising, resulting in nearly a 25% increase to entry valuation.

As the market conditions continue to evolve, we are monitoring the universe of investment opportunities. Market dislocations often create the potential for attractive transaction opportunities. Already, we are beginning to see opportunities in credit, opportunistic and structured financings. Today, we are holding a higher cash balance than usual as deals that we had penciled for allocation, fell away when the market turned. We will use our investable cash to maintain our flexible investment approach to continue to seek to meet the Fund's investment objectives.

Certain of the performance results included herein do not reflect the deduction of any applicable advisory or management fees, since it is not possible to allocate such fees accurately in a vintage year presentation or in a composite measured at different points in time. A client's rate of return will be reduced by any applicable advisory or management fees, carried interest and any expenses incurred. Hamilton Lane's fees are described in Part 2 of our Form ADV, a copy of which is available upon request.

The following hypothetical example illustrates the effect of fees on earned returns for both separate accounts and fund-of-funds investment vehicles. The example is solely for illustration purposes and is not intended as a guarantee or prediction of the actual returns that would be earned by similar investment vehicles having comparable features. The example is as follows: The hypothetical separate account or fund-of-funds consisted of $100 million in commitments with a fee structure of 1.0% on committed capital during the first four years of the term of the investment and then declining by 10% per year thereafter for the 12-year life of the account. The commitments were made during the first three years in relatively equal increments and the assumption of returns was based on cash flow assumptions derived from a historical database of actual private equity cash flows. Hamilton Lane modeled the impact of fees on four different return streams over a 12-year time period. In these examples, the effect of the fees reduced returns by approximately 2%. This does not include performance fees, since the performance of the account would determine the effect such fees would have on returns. Expenses also vary based on the particular investment vehicle and, therefore, were not included in this hypothetical example. Both performance fees and expenses would further decrease the return.
