

Hamilton Lane | Global Private Assets Fund (AUD-Hedged)

Monthly Report as of 31 July 2021

The Hamilton Lane Global Private Assets AUD Hedged share class had positive performance of +0.54% in the month of July, bringing returns for 2021 to +11.81%. As 30% of fund NAV is exposed to FX moves, the weakening of the Australian dollar relative to the United States Dollar positively impacted returns of the hedged share class by approximately 0.55% this month. Annualised since inception returns for the fund are +14.38%.

July's performance was dominated by two counterbalancing story lines. Dampening performance were the decline in the public stock price of two recent IPOs in the portfolio, Bright Health and Hims. Hims, which went public in January 2021 via a reverse merger with the SPAC Oaktree Acquisition Corp., has seen volatility since its February highs. Bright Health was a more recent IPO in June of this year and has seen volatility in the two months since hitting the public markets. Despite the negative movement for the month, both of these investments are still held significantly above cost and today are about a 1% position in the portfolio each.

Countering these two performance detractors were broad gains across the remainder of the portfolio, with no single investment responsible for more than 25% of total gains. Particularly driving the gains was the secondary portfolio, where a combination of valuation uplifts and new investments entering at a discount to NAV generated positive returns. Project Nirvana, the fund's second secondary investment alongside NewView Capital into six growth companies in the technology sector, was the largest individual positive driver of performance.

Deployment and new deal activity for the fund continues to be strong, with three new investments closing in July. As of mid-August, the fund holds less than 5% of its NAV in cash that is yet to be penciled for deals expected to close in the next 2 months. The future pipeline continues to be strong, particularly in the direct equity and secondary spaces.
